25X1 21 to 23 September 1949

25X1₁ Large-scale movements of troops, mostly by motor vehicle and train from the south towards PERLEBERG (M 54/T 70) at night, were observed in the WITTENBERGE area. [REDACTED]

The following railroad shipping activities were seen:

21 September 1949

a. 80 very young recruits (presumably of the 1928 class), accompanied by some artillery sergeants, alighted from four boxcars in PERLEBERG.

23 September 1949

b. A northbound freight train carrying six canvas-covered tanks and about 25 escorting tank troopers passed through WITTENBERGE. The trains came from the direction of STENDAL (M 53/Y 85).

c. Several empty trains, each with 40 to 45, 15 and 35-ton flatcars, coming from the north, passed through WITTENBERGE and continued towards STENDAL. More empty flatcars, in groups of 15 to 25, were included in transient freight trains.

29 September 1949 to 2 October 1949

2. The following north-south troop movements were observed:

29 September 1949

a. A train carrying 15 canvas-covered tanks and 2 trucks (at 9:20 pm.);

29 September 1949

b. A train carrying 10 trucks and 4 guns of about 100 mm

[REDACTED] Comment:

25X1

[REDACTED] large-scale maneuvers of Soviet tank, artillery, motorized infantry and engineer units were held in the LAUENBERG (1 53/Y 97) area on 3 October 1949. The involved units were said to consist of trained personnel and very young soldiers at a 50:50 ratio. The troops wore white bands around their caps; the motor vehicles had little white flags.

25X1 The maneuvers were said to simulate "the disengagement from the enemy". Special efforts was made to take advantage of all possibilities of camouflage, also with regard to heavy weapons. The truck [REDACTED] was repeatedly seen.

25X1 [REDACTED] Comment:

25X1 The report indicates that large-scale maneuvers, at least at division level, were conducted in the area south of southeast of WITTENBERGE (HAVELBERG area or northern edge of Letzling Heath ?) in early October 1949. Most of the observed moto vehicle [REDACTED] of the 94th K.s Mtz Rifle Div. High-ranking officers of the staffs of both the Hq of the Third Shock Army and the Group of Occupation Forces Germany were seen with the maneuver forces. The maneuvers are assumed to have been the final field exercises of the 94th Gds Mtz Rifle Div and other units.
